Disastrous Fire.

A special despatch to the Express printed in our telegraphic columns gives advice of a terrible conflagration in Georgetown, Ky. A large portion of the town was destroyed, including the principal business houses. The loss is estimated from $100,000 to $200,000.

COURT COURT.

This court convenes at 9 o'clock this morning.

A RUMOR.

There was a rumor about late last night that a lady had committed suicide in the lower portion of the city.

Police Matters.

The slate at the First-street station was perfectly clean up to 10 o'clock last night. The slate at the jail bore these words: "Relief Jack--slightly inebriated and drunk."

Basket Picnic.

The Falls City Baseball Club will give a grand basket picnic at Park's Grove Saturday, June 19th. We can promise those who attend courteous attention from the Falls City boys and a pleasant time generally. We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation.

Crass Billiards.

The new croquet suit consists of blue or scarlet cashmere skirts, and polonaise looped up on the sides with blue or scarlet roses. As the game of "grassbilliards" is very fashionable in this city, we trust this information for the ladies will prove reasonable and interesting.

Convalescent.

The many friends of Wm. K. Thomas will be gratified to know that his condition has improved, and there is every hope of his complete recovery. There are few men who have as many friends as Wm. K. Thomas, and few who deserve to have them.

Hop at Elizabethtown.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend a grand hop to be given at the Eagle House, in Elizabethtown, on Tuesday evening, June 29th. The people down there know exactly how to get up and conduct such parties, and we should be glad to avail ourselves of the invitation before us, but such bliss is not a day of our fate.

Iron Molders' Picnic.

The Iron Molders' Union No. 6, of this city, one of the strongest trades' unions in the West, is making extensive preparations for a grand picnic, to take place on the 5th of July, about ten miles out on the Nashville railroad. It promises to be one of the greatest events of the kind that has ever taken place hereabouts. Tickets, one dollar.

The Opera House Dispute.

The question, "Who is in legal possession of the Opera House?" was to have been decided for the disputants, Messrs. Fuller and Bugbee, by Justice Matlack on Saturday, but all parties not being in readiness, the case will be heard before Squire Matlack at 9 o'clock this morning. Colonel Fuller, at present, has the key of the establishment in his pocket.

Moonlight Excursion.

A good time is anticipated for those who participate in the grand moonlight excursion on the steamer Bermuda tonight. Capt. Ike Schultz will command, and Messrs. A. R. Brown, N. F. Kelley, J. A. Kelley, Henry Fomlards and Dallas Arahams will be the managers. The Bermudas will be the manager on the steamer. Ticket for round trip, one dollar. The Bermudas leaves the foot of Fourth street at 6 o'clock this afternoon.

Interesting Lecture.

Rev. J. Lancaster Spaulding, a man eloquent and learned divine, will lecture at St. Louis Hall, near the Cathedral, on Fifth street, next Wednesday evening, at eight o'clock. Subject—Art and the Christian Religion. This is the first of a series of interesting lectures to be given under the auspices of the Philanthropic Society. Tickets, fifty cents, for sale at Webb & Co.'s book-store on Main street, and at the door.

Music.

Let all the lovers of music bear in mind that the beautiful cantata of "Esther" will be given at Wm. F. Hall tonight by the members of Prof. Foote's class. It will stand a dead-beat to the finest music that has been offered to the Louisville public for a long time, and, judging from the large sale of tickets that have made the hall will be filled to a jolt. Those who have not secured tickets had best go early.

Promotion of the English-German Academy.

This school under the supervision of Prof. W. H. Hall had a picnic Friday at the residence of Mr. Theodore Schwartz, on the Newburg road. It was attended by the elite of our German population, and was in every respect a pleasant and enjoyable affair.

Early in the morning the children with their parents, friends and teachers started from the schoolhouse for the place of festival in eight large furniture cars. Many persons went in other conveyances at different times of the day.

The parents of the children furnished the carriages, and aided materially in facilitating the enjoyment of the little ones. John Kohlhepp furnished the bar necessities, which were of course fine. Sebach's band discoursed most delightful music throughout the day. The affair was a complete success, and is a source of gratification to the friends of the school.

TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 1860.

The French Elections.

The recent elections for the Corps Legislatif in France show 1,100 members for the government and 97 for the rest. This is quite a strong showing for the policy of Napoleon III, but it is not a correct expression of the popular will of France.

In our own country we have not infrequently seen the effect of moving up election districts or the wards of cities to precincts of counties, and counties of States. A ward, or precinct, or county, that had a heavy majority one way has been very frequently so placed with other wards, precincts or counties as to have no majority entirely nullified. A heavy Democratic majority has thus been frequently overcome by distorting and members have been sent to Congress as representatives of a State with the popular principles of which they were at war.

We find the same thing now manifested in the French elections. To look at the members of the Corps Legislatif, when 196 are for the Emperor and only 34 against him, it would seem that Napoleon III was all he could wish to be with the French people. Yet, if we look at the popular vote, we shall find that there were 4,053,636 persons who voted for the 196 government members, while there were 3,245,885 who voted for the 94 opposition members. While, therefore, the Corps Legislatif stands two-thirds in favor of the Emperor, the popular vote shows that four-ninths of the people of France are opposed to him. In other words nearly as many Frenchmen oppose Napoleon III as favor him.

Such a state of things cannot be very pleasant for the contemplation of the Emperor. He sees and knows that the vast majority holds in the Corps Legislatif has no foundation in the great popular heart of France. His power in the national council is a mockery. Political jugglery makes him mighty with the law-making power, but his place in the hearts of his people is equivocal. His throne is propped up by bayonets instead of standing on the united shoulders of forty millions of subjects.

It is vain to conjecture what Napoleon will attempt to get himself right with his people. It is perfectly certain that the French are too nearly equally divided for and against him. In such a country as France it is not well for a sovereign to have his subjects so nearly equal upon the one hand, and on the other the French are too fickle and impulsive for a division so nearly equal. Napoleon will have to get up a foreign war or change his policy at home. He can't well rest as he now stands. He must do something to bring the French to him or he must go to the French.

Napoleon, however, is a wise ruler and knows better what to do than any of his advisers can tell him. It may not be amiss, however, for any of those sovereigns who are not upon good terms with him to be looking out for their armies and navies. The Emperor may take it into his head that he must whip somebody to save himself, and really such a thought might very naturally get into his head at this juncture. He may now be looking toward the Rhine for an enlargement of the boundaries of France as if the Germans were rushing up their marshes and threatening their fortifications and neutralizing their armies the day down.

THE government of Europe, it is said, are gradually coming to the conviction that repeating rifles are a failure. The Swiss have given them up as too complicated for use in the field, and the French have put an end to their trial of Veteran's system. Almost all the armies of Europe are of the opinion that the new weapon has been too hastily adopted, and are about to reexamine their experiments with other breech-loaders.

THAT clever Radical, Rumsey Wing, who was lately put up and beaten for Treasurer in this State is already becoming known outside of Kentucky. The New York World says:

A Mr. Rumsey Wing has consented to sacrifice himself as a Radical nominee for State Treasurer of Kentucky. Salary no object, only the efforts of candidacy being desired. After the election an army will have to change so as to read: "Tecumseh, dampus who killed Rumsey."

A NEW YORK paper says Mr. William H. Vanderbilt, the oldest son of the Commodore, to whom the latter has intrusted a great share of the management of his enormous railway interests, is now very sick in Europe. He was unable to leave for home on the steamer which sailed on Saturday. A protracted illness on his part would have a tendency to depress the Vanderbilt stocks.

Southern Ice.

The people of New Orleans are making their own ice. They freeze the water by a chemical process of French origin and claim that the ice is better than the Northern. We don't know why chemical ice should be better than that which nature forms in the regions of congelation, but we are glad that the Southerners are thus turning their wits to supplying their own wants. If they can freeze the water of the Mississippi and make their own ice in summer, and get it cheaper and better than the Northern article, they should certainly do so. The South has too long been dependent upon the North for too many of the necessities of life, and if they will make their own ice a success, they will soon make the supplying of other wants a success. Let them sell all they can buy and as little as possible, and they will soon be a richer and better people than they were when they placed so much of their fortunes in slaves.

NEW YORK, Boston, Philadelphia and all the Northern cities are constantly sending us press dispatches descriptive of match games of baseball. This country will never know what happiness is until the base-ball nuisance is abolished. The spectre-like consciousness that we must suffer from it in the spring and summer eobs the winter months of all that renders them on earth.

Paper calicoes, for dresses, are made in England.

Probably he goes back he will visit the city of Broderick Love, and here, as he would at home, “the tree and those of the Quakers.” If we mistake not, Sir John was Lord Mayor of Dublin in 1863, and in his official capacity presided at the meeting of the corporation of that city at which resolutions were passed expressing the sorrow of the citizens generally on receiving intelligence of the assassination of President Lincoln.—N.Y. ## FUNNY-NOSED BILL.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF OUTLAWY, BUT CAUGHT AT LAST.

From the N.Y. Star, June 7th.

Every New Yorker has doubtless heard of “Funny-Nosed Bill,” the thief. The record books of our Police Courts are disfigured with frequent repetitions of his name, and should one search through the files of the daily journals for the last fifteen years, they would find recorded there the collection of which would form a volume of surpassing interest. Every one who has inspected Super-intendent Kenney's gallery of portraits, has no doubt had his attention drawn to a singular-looking phys'cian among the collection—thin, grizzly-haired, crooked-nosed, pock-marked, scar-disfigured individual. This is “Funny-Nosed Bill,” and that disfigurement of his face seems upon the cheek and the bald pate, are the results of “rugal mid-night thievery” or the work of the coppers. Old Fitch of Blackwell's Island, knows Bill as well as he knows his own family. Nor is the history of the free hotel at Stage-Door familiar with the unsightly figure of this unusually thief.

A CHAPTER ON TWO FROM BILL'S HISTORY.

While it would be impossible in an ordinary newspaper article to relate a hundredth part of the leading exploits of our hero, a few specimen bricks, by way of showing the “cuteness” of the thief, will not be amiss in this connection. The precise date of the commencement of Bill's career of crime is not definitely known, but it is stated that while a strolling, budding genius displayed itself in various ways, such as the stealing of the hooks and eyes from his nurse's dress, &c. The famous robbery of the Pittsburg Bank, a few years ago, was planned and executed by Bill, aided by one or two pals. As will be remembered, the burglars secured $20,000 worth of swag as the fruits of this adventure. With this the thieves escaped to Canada, from whence they entered into negotiations with the directors of the de-spoiled bank—who agreed to give them $2,000 cash, provided they would refund the balance, promising them immunity from prosecution. This proposal was accepted, and the robbers turned to this city. Once Bill robbed a fellow-traveler on one of the Staten Island boats of a gold watch. He was arrested, but the loser of the watch refused to prosecute, Bill escaped prison. A little later than this, Officer Conway, of the Sixth precinct, seized him at the moment when he had inserted a false key in the lock of an Eighth-avenue store and he was duly indicted for an attempt at burglary. But the dangerous delays of the law again served him in good stead; for his trial being postponed from time to time, Officer Conway was meantime transferred, resigned, and left the city. When Funny-Nosed was at last called to answer, there was no evidence against him, and he was discharged. Thus he went on, year after year, committing crimes without number, and so often, by some hook or crook, cheating justice of its due, that he was at last thought to have a charmed liberty that the law was powerless to curb.

BILL'S LAST EXPLOIT.

The last exploit of our hero was the robbery in Broadway, a few days ago, of a lady named Benedict. Mrs. Benedict had inadvertently displayed her well-stuffed purse in a store where she had made some purchases; a short time previous to this, Bill, who was longing about in search of a game, caught sight of the treasure, and, leaping upon trying his luck again, chased the woman down Broadway, and, after a little skillful maneuvering, succeeded in running his digits into the woman's reticule, and securing the coveted pocket-book. An officer of the Broadway squad who witnessed the transaction, laid hands on Bill, and tooted him off to the stationhouse. While on the way thither the thief attempted to throw away the wallet, but the officer was too smart for him and recovered the money after it had been thrown into the gutter.

BILL GETS HIS DESERTS.

The prisoner was taken before Justice Dowling, who committed him for trial at the Sessions. On Saturday his cause was in the court, when he was sentenced to the penitentiary for six months.

THE VOUDOU.

ELECTION OF A NEW QUEEN.

From the N.O. Times, 6th.

The first of June, as is known to old gossips, is the time of year that is devoted to the Voudou worship, and the celebration of their most sacred rites. It is at this period that they retire to the Lake-end and indulge in frequent suppers and midnight bathing, and that the dances and other superstitious observances are practiced with the most vigor and intensity. Any one who is curious to pay them a visit can do so by proceeding to the Lake-end of the Pontchartrain railroad, and going down the road on the right hand side of the track for half a mile.

WOMEN IN POLITICS.

A MR. MALL'S VIEWS ABOUT THE SUBJECT.

At Bradford, England, on the 24th, between four and five thousand women met in St. George's Hall, and presented to Mr. Mall M. a handsome testimonial, consisting of a library of rare books of four hundred names, a handsome time-piece and candlestick for Mrs. Mall, and a sum of words $500 for their daughter. Mr. Mall, in acknowledging the presentation made a long speech, in the course of which he said:

“Happy will be the day in England—

—happy will be the day throughout the world—when woman takes her real and proper position when she stands in that respect, as in others, the helmsman of man;

when her pure instincts shall always be exercised to detect wrong and injustice wherever it exists, and when all her emotions of love and pity, of hope and joy, shall express themselves in those objects in which her husband, or her brother, or her sons, as the case may be, are deeply interested. We shall have gentler politics when the gentler sex take to politics as they should—not party politics, nor the distinction between ‘twaddledom and twaddle’—not that line of politics which simply determined who shall be in and who shall be out; but the welfare of the nation in its national capacity, true economy in the management of its finances, just and benevolent objects as the end of its pursuit; and the welfare of all end of each, in their divided and in their united capacity, as one of the great businesses for which government is responsible.

“I hope the time is coming when policies shall tell even more distinctly upon the homes of the working classes than it has done hitherto. I should be delighted at the achievement pointed forward to by John Bright, when there will be in the house of every workingman in the kingdom, and of every working woman, a free breakfast-table. I look forward to the time, not perhaps so near, but still not so remote but that possibly it may be witness by some even in this assembly, when woman will cease to be employed in those works—rough, hard, toilsome, exhausting works—in which she is engaged now in order to contribute her part towards the maintenance of her children. The time will come, I trust, when the workers will be entitled to a weekly wage, and when the factory nor is other great shops of industry, will women's work be needed; when husbands will be sufficiently remunerated for their toil, when capital and labor will have so far reconciled to mother as that men may do the work of men, and women may do the work in order that they may the more fully preside over the work of the household.

—MOTLEY'S ORDERS.

HE IS TO SKIRMISH, BUT NOT BEING ON A GENERAL ENGAGEMENT.

From Special Correspondent to the Boston Post.

WASHINGTON, June 8.

The Secretary of State is expecting mo-nitorially information of the official presentation of Mr. Motley to the Queen of England.

Mr. Motley's representations on this occasion are expected to be somewhat of the general character used on our presentations—protesting that our government has none but the most peaceful intentions, and entertains the kindest feelings etc. From an official source, which should be pretty well advised on that subject, your correspondent obtained the following statement: Mr. Motley is instructed first to conclude the negotiations of consular and naturalization treaties; afterwards, if an opportunity offers,

to endeavor to have the negotiations transferred to Washington. Meanwhile he is to insist that the difference between the two governments is not merely one of dollars and cent injury to our citizens, but also includes the wrong inflicted on this government by the Queen's proclamation conceding belligerent rights to the Confederates. He is to explain that our government would accept the terms of the Johnson-Clarendon treaty, if, beside the money settlement, it also included the belligerent rights question. Upon Mr. Motley's progress in this direction will, of course, depend the character of further instructions. It is also said that the Administration will probably accept the terms of the Johnson-Clarendon treaty, if, beside the money settlement, it also included the belligerent rights question. Upon Mr. Motley's progress in this direction will, of course, depend the character of further instructions. It is also said that the Admini-

One Hundred Decapitations.

Ross, Sherman and Poor L.

Grant's Reason for Granting Sickles a Year's Furlough.

Special to the Express.

WASHINGTON, June 13.

THE GUILLOTINE

Has been kept busy at work, and removals and proscriptions have been the order of the day for months past in all of the other departments. About the War Department everything has moved along serenely in the ordinary routine, without, up to this time, the slightest indication of a disposition or intention making any extensive changes. The clerks and employees, permanent and temporary, and officers of all grades, enjoying snug positions on duty in the department, some of them for many consecutive years, were congratulating themselves. In the Pay Department, Surgeon-General's Office, Adjutant-General's Office, &c., it is estimated that there will be a dismissal of one hundred officials when the orders are enforced.

SENATOR ROSS

Had another interview with Gen. Sherman yesterday, and asked that troops might be concentrated more rapidly in Western Kansas for the protection of the white settlers from the increasing Indian depredations. Sherman said that the proper military force was already moving in the territory of the depredations.

ONE REASON

Why the President has granted to General

Sickles, retired, Minister to Spain, a leave of absence for an entire year, is a misunderstanding in regard to the effect of the law, which was passed at the last session of Congress, preventing officers in active service from accepting diplomatic appointments; but this law may apply to retired officers, and pending the decision the leave is granted.

Mayo Bowen and a large number of persons left this evening for Boston to attend the peace jubilee.

GOV. CURTIN'S BIG DINNER.

A Letter from the Czar of all the Russias

Is Read by the Count Bodlesco.

What the Czar Thinks of Grant.

To the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.

At the Curtin dinner last evening Count Bodlesco, who responded to the toast of Russia in a few remarks, read the following:

"To Count Bodlesco, Charge de Affairs:

"Sir: The sympathies of our august Sovereign toward the American people and for their destinies are too active and too sincere to permit his Majesty not once again to experience a desire to express them on the advent of General Grant to the Presidency of the Federal Union.

By order of the Emperor, you are instructed to become the interpreter of these sentiments near the President.

The services which General Grant has rendered to his country under such circumstances warrants inquiries of the future, and of the great work to which he had the glory to contribute in a manner so efficient. This work of pacification and of national prosperity has not met with, and will not, anywhere meet with, a more cordial and more steadfast sympathy than in Russia."

The War Department Order Suspended.

Volunteers Are Wanted for the Frontier.

U. S. Troops to be "Used" in North Carolina.

A Decision by Commissioner Delano.

The Tax on Brokers' Sales.

To the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 13.

The Secretary of War, in reply to a telegraphic dispatch from Adjutant General Townsend, has decided on the suspension of his order for the discharge of clerks in the War Department until his return to the city.

Should the present military force on the frontier be inadequate to promptly quell existing difficulties with the Indians, authority will be conferred on Gen. Schofield to raise volunteers for this purpose and secure peace and tranquility to the border. The Bureau of Internal Revenue has received authority from the War Department to use United States troops in North Carolina, when necessary, to carry on the internal revenue laws. This grows out of the fact that there is a large number distilleries in that State, proprietors of which continue to evade the law and put revenue officers at defiance.

Commissioner Delano has made a decision upon a question submitted to him by the Board of Brokers of New York as to their liability to pay a tax of one twentieth of one per cent upon the sums received by them for negotiating sales. It is said that he decides that they are liable as commission merchants on all sales in excess of $50,000 made by or for them at the rate of one dollar on each $1,000, except those made through other wholesale dealers who pay tax as such and sell on commission, and are consequently liable on sales made through commercial brokers and that commercial brokers are also liable upon all sales negotiated by them at the rate of 50 cents on each $1,000, except those made by or through another broker.

LATER NEWS FROM ARIZONA.

A Ten Hours' Fight with Indians.

They Capture a Wagon Train.

Pursuit Made but no Captures.

Seizure of a Steamer from Alaska.

To the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.

Late Arizona advises state that about three hundred Indians attacked a train of nine wagons and eighty mules laden with government stores for Camp Grant. After ten hours' resistance the teamsters were joined by a small force of soldiers, but were compelled to abandon the train with a loss of three killed and three wounded. The Indian loss is unknown.

Soon after capturing the train the savages set fire to the wagons and destroyed them and their contents. The property is valued at not less than $20,000. Upon receipt of the news at Tucson, the troops were sent in pursuit of the Indians, but the search was fruitless.

A large party of savages made a descent upon a herd of two hundred cattle belonging to a Frenchman named Lazarus, drove off the herdsmen and captured the entire lot. Only sufficient troops remained at camp Lowell to garrison the post, and no further pursuit could be made.

Unless great military protection is soon afforded the settlers, the country must be abandoned to the Indians.

Arrived—United States steamer Pensacola from Mexican ports; steamers Colorado, Panama and Whittington, from Liverpool; San Francisco, from Newcastle, N. S. W.; Speedwell, from Punta Clear; Macedon, from Shanghai.

The steamer Constantine has arrived from Sitka, and brings about $12,000 worth of skins and fur-bearing animals from Alaska. Owing to some infraction of the treasury regulations, the government officials have seized the steamer cargo and furs.

Everything is unusually dull at Sitka. The weather is warm throughout the Territory, and but little ice has been put up either in the Koduk island or at Sitka by the ice companies.

The U. S. Steamer Pensacola brings $300,000 treasure from Mexican ports.

Horace W. Carpenter, of Oakland, offers to donate $60,000 for the establishment of an orphan asylum in that city, on the condition that five other citizens subscribe like amounts, making a total of $300,000, or if even all the citizens of Oakland will make up the above amount.
